TO THE READER.

He Use and End of this Metrical Epitome, being only to help thy Memory in retaining and calling to Mind the matters contained in the several Chapters of the Old and New Testament, ought in all Justice to be a sufficient Apology for the Faults of its Poetry: For it is impossible, within the compass of one single Verse or Line, to express with equal perspicuity or smoothness the Contents of Chapters, so unequal both in length and variety.

In the Historical Part, I am bold to hope that there is not much Pretermitted; but the Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and many Chapters in the Prophets, consisting of various and unconnected Sentences, are no way reducible to any one certain Head ; and therefore I held my self contented to Characterize them by some remarkable Sentence in them, and have added in the Margin the Numerals of the Verses where such Sentences are to be found.

To the READER.

Upon the whole, if it may pass for an Essay, and excite others to do it better ; and in the mean time be subservient to Piety, in promoting the Knowledge and Practice of the Holy Scriptures, too much neglected and forgotten in this Sinful Age, shall have my End.
